UNIQUE STRUGGLE FOR NATIONAL PUBLICITY

Evanston Police Head Borrowed $400 From Zuta

MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES ARE NOW USING EXPERTS

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL CAM-PAIGNS WAGED

AT $5,000 A NIGHT DEMOCRATS ARE BROADCASTING NATIONAL LECTURE

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 19. — A unique struggle for national publicity was being waged here and throughout the country today by especially employed experts of the two major political parties.

Behind the scenes there is no more interesting story than the contest for a place in the public mind now being fought out by the $25,000-a-year men in control of republican and democratic congressional campaign propaganda.

A climax to this strange battle was reached last night when J. M. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, broadcast over a national hookup a criticism of President Hoover based upon a charge that the executive had failed to warn the country of "the inevitable crash of business."

At a reported cost of $5,000 a night, the democrats have employed one of the national broadcasting agencies for circulating a series of similar political lectures. Hearing of this, the republican publicity organization also has swung into action. Arrangements have been made for them to obtain as much time on the air as the democrats.

Their answer to Shouse will be broadcast over the same radio network next Monday night by Senator Simeon D. Fess, new chairman of the republican national committee. Thereafter, speakers representing the two parties will alternate on Monday nights in firing radio broadsides.

Not content with plans for this national radio debate, the republicans issued mimeographed answers to Shouse last night even before he had finished speaking. One statement quoted Majority Leader Tilson of the house as asserting Shouse's talk was "an amazing collection of half truths, misstatements, abuse and criticism."

The contest between the two party organizations has been an interesting one ever since the Smith-Raskob group established a full-time publicity bureau here after the last presidential campaign. Charles Michaelson, head of the New York World bureau here, was employed as director at a salary reported to be $25,000 a year.

Spanish Gardener Runs Amuck and Kills Three

Pleasantville, N. J., Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—A Spanish gardener employed at the home of Mrs. Mary Parr ran amuck today and murdered his employer, her sister and her sister's son.

After committing the triple murder, the Spaniard, John Le Gore, shot himself. He is in an Atlantic City hospital, where he is in a critical condition.

According to neighbors, the killings followed an argument between the gardener and Mrs. Parr's nephew, presumably about property rights to the farm.

It was learned that Mrs. Parr had at some time given Le Gore permission to live on her farm for the duration of her life and had maintained that at the time of her death her entire property was to revert to him. It was believed that the Spaniard and the nephew were arguing this point when the man turned and ran to his room, emerging in a few minutes with a shotgun. After killing the three persons he turned the gun on himself.

The bandits entered the Cottridge Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada shortly after noon yesterday, held employees at bay with revolvers and made their getaway in a waiting automobile with $3,000.

WOMAN USES THREE TIMES HER WEIGHT IN COSMETICS

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—The average American woman uses, during her lifetime, three times her weight in cosmetics. Mrs. M. B. McGavran, Kansas City, president of the American Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists, told delegates at the association's eleventh annual convention being held here.

Mrs. McGavran figured the average American woman weighs about 115 pounds and uses, between her 16th and 60th birthday, 347.6 pounds of makeups and creams.

There are, she estimated, about 40,000,000 women in the country. They use 316,034,000 pounds or 158,012 tons of cosmetics each year. That is 7.9 pounds annually for each woman.

"JAKE" LINGLE VICTIM OF THE NEWSPAPER GAME

HIS BROTHER, THOMAS LINGLE, GIVES HIS IDEA OF THE MURDER CASE

VIEWPOINT OF ALWAYS GETTING THE NEWS LED TO THE TRAGEDY

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—"Jake" Lingle, murdered Chicago Tribune reporter, was a victim of the newspaper game played with the idea of getting the news at any cost, his brother, Thomas Lingle, asserted here today.

The brother, a San Francisco business man, was in El Paso for a brief visit, and freely discussed the slaying of the star police reporter.

"The kid was clean," Lingle said, speaking of Jake. "But his newspaperman's viewpoint of always getting the news led him to tragedy."

"He made friends with gangsters. When his newspaper told him to 'get a story on Capone' he knew where to find it. He never fell down on a story."

"He had friends, but none he could trust. He always was lonesome. To him gangsters always were gangsters."

"Jake was a newspaperman first. He grew powerful enough that he could have entered the racket or into any element of business, but he chose to stay a reporter and use his influence and knowledge toward getting the news."

"Jake never worked under cover. I knew when he was killed what would be brought out. He made no secret of the $700 belt buckle from Al Capone."

"Jake lived like a king, although his paper paid him, according to its own statement, $65 a week."

"I believe it published that figure just for internal policy. But if that is what they paid Jake, one might say something about a business that takes the best that a brilliant man can give for 15 years and in return pay $65 a week."

"The man who killed my brother is unimportant. It's the system behind him that is."

"Newspapers could get rid of that system but they are not crusaders. They care only for news."

Lingle described Chicago as a "tough town in places," and said that "what started out to be a crusade to run down my brother's slayer turned out to be a battle of words between papers trying to get something on each other."

Means of Relieving Unemployment Taken Up at State Federation of Labor Convention

UNION LABOR URGED TO BUY UNION PRODUCTS

PRES. E. G. HALL URGES STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE LAW

STANDARDIZED WAGES FOR ALL STATE WORKERS IS CONSIDERED

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Means of relieving unemployment in Minnesota were discussed by delegates to the 48th annual convention of the State Federation of Labor today.

One method suggested was that union laborers patronize union products. It was pointed out that union laborers' wives frequently shopped around to the store charging the lowest prices rather than using only union made products.

One delegate said that if laborers considered union rates good enough for themselves they should help other fellow workers by using union products so that all might have the highest wages.

George W. Lawson, Minneapolis, said that hours of labor in the canned food industry needed changes and suggested that the convention take some action to change a constitutional amendment passed four years ago which he said was most unsatisfactory to union labor under the present unemployment crisis.

John Handley, secretary and treasurer of the Wisconsin State Federation of labor, and Charles F. Kelsey, head of the musicians' union in Minnesota, also spoke on unemployment.

E. G. Hall, Minneapolis, president of the State Federation of Labor, asked the executive committee to consider standardized wages for all state workers. Hall also told the 275 delegates that they should use their influence to obtain a state unemployment insurance law in the 1931 state legislature.

J. H. Wilson, 93, St. Paul, civil war veteran, oldest union employee in the state and worker for the state industrial commission, will be the guest of honor at a banquet tonight. Some 500 guests are expected.

HERO'S WELCOME FOR CAPTAIN

VENTURA CARRIES 251 SURVIVORS OF BRITISH STEAMER TAHITI

Pago Pago, Samoa, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—A hero's welcome awaited Captain W. R. Meyer of the Matson liner Ventura today as that ship neared this island port with 251 survivors of the British steamer Tahiti which foundered Sunday in the South Seas.

The Ventura is due here around 2 P. M. today and on its arrival island residents will pay homage to Captain Meyer and his crew for the heroic work in speeding 755 miles across the Pacific, arriving just in time to remove those aboard the disabled Tahiti.

That there wasn't a moment to spare was indicated in a message, telling of the rescue, sent out by F. N. Davidson, radio operator of the Tahiti, now aboard the Ventura.

"Passengers just got on Ventura in time as all bulkheads started giving away and all holds were filled to the tween decks," the message said.

"The forward part of the ship was listing heavily but nose much deeper than stern. She sank nose first."

"All the letter mail was saved but the newspapers were lost. Part of mail damaged by sea water. Sank at 4:30 P. M. Sunday."

Davidson's message is the only bit of descriptive detail the modest Captain Meyer has permitted to clear the ship. From other sources, however, hints of drama of the rescue was learned.

It was last Friday that the Tahiti, enroute from Australia to San Francisco, lost its tail shaft and called for aid. The Ventura, enroute from Sydney to San Francisco, was 700 miles away and on another steamer line.

200 MEN STORM EDGEcombe COUNTY JAIL AT TARBORO, N. C.

BETWEEN 50 AND 60 BULLET HOLES MARKED THE BODY

Tarboro, N. C., Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Oliver Moore, 35, negro accused of attacking two white girls, was lynched today by 200 men who stormed the Edgecombe county jail.

"I was aroused shortly after midnight and went to the jail," Deputy Sheriff R. O. Watson said. "The mob was milling about the jail. I pleaded with them but they battered down the doors and took the negro."

Moore's body was cut down from the limb of a tree where officers found it several hours after the lynching. Between 50 and 60 bullet holes marked the body, Watson said.

Moore was arrested Saturday and accused of attacking Ethel Morgan, 7, and her sister, Inelle, 5, as they played in the loft of a tobacco barn belonging to their father, E. F. Morgan.

He was identified late yesterday by Ethel, who pointed her finger at him during a preliminary hearing and said: "That's the man."

'VERY SUCCESSFUL' VACATION COMPLETED BY BROOKS FAMILY

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brooks have just completed what Brooks today termed a "very successful" vacation.

Among the things which the couple discovered upon returning home after two weeks' absence were:

Mrs. Brooks' fur coat and seven of her dresses had been stolen; the house had been on fire; the radio had been stolen; Brooks had forgotten to turn off the electric lights in the basement and the light bill had trebled; and somebody had driven golf balls through all the garage windows.

MRS. McPHERSON, EVANGELIST, IS CRITICALLY ILL

HAD BEEN SUFFERING NERVOUS BREAKDOWN AT LOS ANGELES

HER HUNDREDS OF FOLLOWERS ARE OFFERING DAILY PRAYERS

Los Angeles, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, noted woman evangelist and head of the Angelus Temple here, was reported critically ill at the home of friends today after suffering a nervous breakdown two weeks ago.

The evangelist's condition was so serious that directors of the temple admitted there was concern felt for her recovery.

Her hundreds of followers, apprised of their leader's illness, have begun offering daily prayers for her.

The night watchman at the temple reported early today that Mrs. McPherson "has no doctors."

"The lord will take care of her," he said.

The watchman said she had not been at the temple for two weeks.

Temple officials wired Mrs. McPherson's two children to return home at once. Roberta, the daughter, is in Paris, and Robert, the son, is on an evangelistic tour of the midwest.

Later it was reported that she had been located in a beach cabin at Malibu, recreation center for the Hollywood motion picture colony.

A secretary denied rumors that Mrs. McPherson was undergoing treatment as the result of a face-lifting operation she had performed in Budapest.

The evangelist last preached at the temple two weeks ago. At that time it was reported she planned to be away from the church for a time "to write a book."

Since then her whereabouts has been kept secret and it was not until the directors of the temple met last night that the majority of her followers suspected their leader to be ill.

A statement issued by the directors after their purportedly hurried meeting, read:

"It is true that Mrs. McPherson is suffering from a nervous breakdown. It is also true that physicians are greatly concerned for her recovery."

"After 22 years of unselfish, unremitting evangelistic work, it is no wonder human strength cannot indefinitely endure the pressure of work entailed by the great organization she has built."

"We have long wanted her to rest, but she has always refused to take a vacation. We are praying continually that God may restore her to the pulpit of Angelus Temple."

SPUTTERING GUN FIRE OF GANGSTERS IN MILL CITY SUBURB

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Sputtering gunfire resounded through the streets of a Minneapolis suburb today as two car loads of supposed gangsters attempted to battle.

The two cars, according to witnesses' stories to police, veered and swerved at 60 miles an hour while gunfire sputtered. None was injured in the battle as far as witnesses could make out.

Theories were advanced that the affair might be another chapter in the gangland story which recorded the death of three Kansas City racketeers near Wildwood Amusement Park last Wednesday night.

ASTOUNDING WEB IS WOVEN BY GANGLAND

CHICAGO AUTHORITIES SEEK TO PENETRATE VARIOUS MESHES

ALLEGED ALLIANCE EXISTED BETWEEN GANGS AND CERTAIN HIGH OFFICIALS

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Suburban Chief of Police William Freeman of Evanston, was drawn today into the astounding web of circumstances which investigators are weaving in an effort to disclose a definite alliance has existed between Chicago's powerful gangs and her high officials.

Freeman confessed, according to an announcement by the investigators, that he accepted $400 from Jack Zuta, gangland chieftain.

After Zuta's death, his financial records, extending back for a number of years, were found in safety deposit boxes.

Among these records were found the names of many judges and other officials, most of them signed to notes and canceled checks. The records revealed also that the income of the Zuta-Moran-Aiello gang mounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

The letter was undated. It read as follows:

"Dear Jack: I am temporarily in need of four 'CS' for a couple of months. Can you let me have it? The bearer does not know what it is, so put in an envelope and seal it and address it to me."

Your old pal,
BILL FREEMAN.

"P. S. Will let you know the night of the party, so be sure and come."

Freeman's name was found signed to a letter, written on official stationery of the Evanston police department. The chief, who gained fame for his part in solving the Loeb-Leopold murder mystery, was asked to explain.

Under questioning, Freeman, the investigators said, confessed he had written to Zuta, requesting a $400 loan, that he had received the money and never repaid it.

He denied emphatically he ever had extended Zuta any favors, and defied the investigators to find evidence of any gangland activities in Evanston.

"I guess I'm through," Freeman told the board.

Another new name also was added today to the rapidly growing list found among the Zuta records. It was that of John Craig, city editor of the Chicago Daily News. A check for $50, made payable to cash and signed by Craig was found in the vaults.

Craig explained to investigators that he had cashed the check at a roadhouse, that when the check did not come back he asked Zuta about it, was told the check had been torn up and gave Zuta the money in cash.

While the investigators continued along the amazing trail of the Zuta dollars today, the police department was carrying on a series of raids on Loop gambling dens and the entire force of the East Chicago avenue station was transferred. The investigators have suspected that numerous "East Chicago-$3,500" entries in Zuta's records meant the gangster paid that amount each week to officers in that station.

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Indication that the federal government might charge South Chicago authorities with protecting bootleggers was given today in an announcement by U. S. District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson that he was "satisfied" with results of 15 raids conducted simultaneously by 29 agents.

Johnson said the raids were made after Alexander Jamie, chief of the federal raiders, had carried on an investigation intended to prove recent "conditions" in South Chicago could not exist "without permission of authorities."

At the same time the 15 South Chicago saloons were being raided, other agents raided five distilleries at Lansing, a nearby suburb.

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(U.P.)—Fresh evidence involving a state senator and gangsters both dead and alive came from Jack Zuta's boxful of amazing gangland documents today.

A stream of checks and notes which the murdered business manager of the northside gang secreted in a safety deposit box before his death, was made public today by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney. Roche hinted that the real sensations were yet to come.

To the list of public officials already named as recipients of Zuta's gang profits was added that of State Senator Harry W. Starr.

Two checks, each for $200, and signed "Jack Zuta" in his curious bookkeeper handwriting, were given to Starr, Roche revealed today.

One was dated October 5, 1926, and the other Oct. 16.

Starr has been asked to explain them, Roche said, but since has gone on a vacation.

BODY

Tarboro, N. C., Aug. 19. — (U.P.) — Oliver Moore, 35, negro accused of attacking two white girls, was lynched today by 200 men who stormed the Edgecombe county jail.

"I was aroused shortly after midnight and went to the jail," Deputy Sheriff R. O. Watson said. "The mob was milling about the jail. I pleaded with them but they battered down the doors and took the negro."

Moore's body was cut down from the limb of a tree where officers found it several hours after the lynching. Between 50 and 60 bullet holes marked the body, Watson said.

Moore was arrested Saturday and accused of attacking Ethel Morgan, 7, and her sister, Inelle, 5, as they played in the loft of a tobacco barn belonging to their father, E. F. Morgan.

He was identified late yesterday by Ethel, who pointed her finger at him during a preliminary hearing and said: "That's the man."

MURDER SUSPECT IS TAKEN AFTER
AN HOUR'S FIRING25 POLICEMEN RAIN TEAR GAS
AND FIRE SHOTS INTO CHI-CAGO BASEMENTSFUGITIVE SHOT AND KILLED A MAN IN FRONT OF STORE ON WEST MADISON ST.

Chicago, Aug. 19. — (U.P.) — Twenty-five policemen threw tear gas bombs and kept up a steady pistol fire into the basement of a store on busy West Madison Street for almost an hour late yesterday afternoon, finally driving out and capturing a murder suspect.

The basement in which the fugitive took refuge is just across the street from the Northwestern station, through which thousands of commuters and tourists pass daily.

Hundreds of pedestrians dodged into doorways and down alleyways during the battle, watching the police lay siege to the place.

The fugitive, who was not identified immediately, was driven into the basement a few minutes after Ike Brodick, a bartender, was shot and killed in front of the store and in sight of the crowds of passers-by.

Reinforcements were called with tear bombs, policemen nearby keeping up a steady fire into the basement. The street, ordinarily teeming with traffic, suddenly became clear.

Some of the police tossed gas bombs through the basement windows while others fired through the windows and watched the exits.

Occupants of the store scamped away, leaving the besiegers a clear field.

After 45 minutes of shooting and bombing, the fugitive emerged tears streaming from his eyes. Otherwise he was unhurt.

When he was able to talk, the fugitive said his name was George Hoffman. Police said he and Brodick, the bartender, got into an argument over a glass of beer in a nearby speakeasy.

Hoffman shot him and ran into a blind alley, police said.

Faced with capture, Hoffman dived into the basement and hid.

So far as the besiegers could tell he did not return the fire.

Hoffman heaved a sigh of relief as he was taken to the Desplantes station and charged with murder.

"I'm glad enough to get out of that gas," he said. Hoffman said he was from Eagle River, Wis.

WOMAN USES THREE TIMES HER WEIGHT
IN COSMETICS

Chicago, Aug. 19. — (U.P.) — The average American woman uses, during her lifetime, three times her weight in cosmetics, Mrs. M. B. McGavran, Kansas City, president of the American Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists, told delegates at the association's eleventh annual convention being held here.

Mrs. McGavran figured the average American woman weighs about 115 pounds and uses, between her 16th and 60th birthday, 347.6 pounds of makeups and creams.

There are, she estimated, about 40,000,000 women in the country. They use 316,034,000 pounds or 158,012 tons of cosmetics each year. That is 7.9 pounds annually for each woman.

"JAKE" LINGLE
VICTIM OF THE
NEWSPAPER GAMEHIS BROTHER, THOMAS LINGLE, GIVES HIS IDEA OF THE MURDER CASEVIEWPOINT OF ALWAYS GETTING THE NEWS LED TO THE TRAGEDY

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 19. — (U.P.) — "Jake" Lingle, murdered Chicago Tribune reporter, was a victim of the newspaper game played with the idea of getting the news at any cost, his brother, Thomas Lingle, asserted here today.

The brother, a San Francisco business man, was in El Paso for a brief visit, and freely discussed the slaying of the star police reporter.

"The kid was clean," Lingle said, speaking of Jake. "But his newspaperman's viewpoint of always getting the news led him to tragedy."

"He made friends with gangsters. When his newspaper told him to 'get a story on Capone' he knew where to find it. He never fell down on a story. He had friends, but none he could trust. He always was lonesome. To him gangsters always were gangsters."

"Jake was a newspaperman first. He grew powerful enough that he could have entered the racket or into any element of business, but he chose to stay a reporter and use his influence and knowledge toward getting the news."

"Jake never worked under cover. I knew when he was killed what would be brought out. He made no secret of the $700 belt buckle from Al Capone."

"Jake lived like a king, although his paper paid him, according to its own statement, $65 a week."

"I believe it published that figure just for internal policy. But if that is what they paid Jake, one might say something about a business that takes the best that a brilliant man can give for 18 years and in return pay $65 a week."

"The man who killed my brother is unimportant. It's the system behind him that is."

"Newspapers could get rid of that system but they are not crusaders. They care only for news."

Lingle described Chicago as a "tough town in places," and said that "what started out to be a crusade to run down my brother's slayer turned out to be a battle of words between papers trying to get something on each other."

MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES ARE NOW
USING EXPERTSREPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL CAM-
PAIGNS WAGEDAT $5,000 A NIGHT DEMOCRATS
ARE BROADCASTING NA-TIONAL LECTURE

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 19. — A unique struggle for national publicity was being waged here and throughout the country today by especially employed experts of the two major political parties.

Behind the scenes there is no more interesting story than the contest for a place in the public mind now being fought out by the $25,000-a-year men in control of republican and democratic congressional campaign propaganda.

A climax to this strange battle was reached last night when J. M. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, broadcast over a national hookup a criticism of President Hoover based upon a charge that the executive had failed to warn the country of "the inevitable crash of business."

At a reported cost of $5,000 a night, the democrats have employed one of the national broadcasting agencies for circulating a series of similar political lectures. Hearing of this, the republican publicity organization also has swung into action. Arrangements have been made for them to obtain as much time on the air as the democrats.

Their answer to Shouse will be broadcast over the same radio network next Monday night by Senator Simeon D. Fess, new chairman of the republican national committee. Thereafter, speakers representing the two parties will alternate on Monday nights in firing radio broadsides.

Not content with plans for this national radio debate, the republicans issued mimeographed answers to Shouse last night ever before he had finished speaking. One statement quoted Majority Leader Tilson of the house as asserting Shouse's talk was "an amazing collection of half truths, misstatements, abuse and criticism."

The contest between the two party organizations has been an interesting one ever since the Smith-Raskob group established a full-time publicity bureau here after the last presidential campaign. Charles Michaelson, head of the New York World bureau here, was employed as director at a salary reported to be $25,000 a year.

Spanish Gardener Runs
Amuck and Kills Three

Pleasantville, N. J., Aug. 19. — (U.P.) — A Spanish gardener employed at the home of Mrs. Mary Parr ran amuck today and murdered his employer, her sister and her sister's son.

After committing the triple murder, the Spaniard, John Le Gore, shot himself. He is in an Atlantic City hospital, where he is in a critical condition.

According to neighbors, the killings followed an argument between the gardener and Mrs. Parr's nephew, presumably about property rights to the farm.

It was learned that Mrs. Parr had at some time given Le Gore permission to live on her farm for the duration of her life and had maintained that at the time of her death her entire property was to revert to him. It was believed that the Spaniard and the nephew were arguing this point when the man turned and ran to his room, emerging in a few minutes with a shotgun. After killing the three persons he turned the gun on himself.

MILLE LACS VETS INSTITUTE POST

1,000 Witness Colorful Rites in Front of Old County Court House at Princeton

Before a crowd of one thousand people, in a colorful, impressive open air ceremony, in the park in front of the old county court house at Princeton, a Mille Lacs County Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was instituted Sunday afternoon, August 17. The new post is named the Brown-Robideau Post No. 1902, in honor of Jimmie Brown of Princeton, who was killed in France while serving with the 91st Division, and Real Robideau, who died while serving in the Tank Corps in the A. E. F.

Music was furnished by the Glensdorado band. Presiding at the program, prior to the public institution, was Elden C. Burdick, National Adjutant of the Military Order of Cooties, on the platform were Mr. and Mrs. Brown, father and mother of Jimmie L. Brown, and Louis Robideau, father of Real Robideau, the gold star men whose names are to be commemorated by the Post. Z. L. Begin, Judge Advocate General of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke of the history and work that the organization is doing for the disabled men, and emphasized that it is not in competition with other service organizations, but has always cooperated with all organizations interested in the disabled. He told of the National Home for widows and orphans maintained at Eaton Rapids, Mich., on a farm of over 500 acres, where over 100 orphans are being given the same care, education and rearing that they would have had if their fathers had lived, and that this home was paid for, out of the dues of members and the proceeds of the Buddy Poppy sales, which have been endorsed by President Hoover, the American Federation of Labor, the churches, the Federated Women's clubs and thousands of other organizations. He said "The World War Pension Bill will take care of the hundreds of thousands of disabled men who today are not getting any compensation for their disabilities, because they have been unable through red tape and lapse of time, to connect their disabilities with service. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, three years ago came out for a World War Pension Bill and when the last session of Congress passed it, they were the only service organization actively working for it, and credit for its passage is due to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The bill has defects but in substituting a comprehensive plan for the piecemeal, makeshift system, it is a great step forward."

Other speakers were A. George Johnson of Hopkins, Department Chief of Staff, and John Bowe of Canby, decorated three times for bravery in the Philippines, and three times while serving in the Foreign Legion in the World War, a past Department Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who spoke on the necessity of unity and cooperation among service organizations, and Dr. R. R. Heim, Department Commander who spoke of the plans for recruiting in the state.

The ritual work was performed by the degree team of the Woodrow Wilson Post No. 1491, of Minneapolis, all dressed in snappy uniforms and led by Oscar J. Stearns, National Commander of the M. O. C.

The Post has 45 names on the Charter list and the following officers were elected to serve until 1937:

Roy Leach, Zimmerman, Commander.

John Heterich, Princeton, Senior Vice Commander.

Roy Robert, Princeton, Junior Vice Commander.

Dell Smithers, Zimmerman, Quartermaster.

R. L. Hanson, Zimmerman, Adjutant.

William Dugen, Princeton, Chaplain.

Guarded From Anti-Reds

The alleged refusal of these two girls to accept an American flag for the Communist children's camp at Van Etten, N. Y., is said to have been the spark that touched off a raid upon the camp, in which about 1,500 men and boys participated. After burning a fiery cross before the camp and tearing down a red flag at the entrance, the mob was got under control by Sheriff H. C. Tifts, of Elmira, and his men. (International Newsreels)

MIRACLES by A. J. Dunlap

The miracles of ancient times—
Like Jonah and the whale;
The talking ass that Balaam rode;
The cruse that could not fail—
May prove that God abides somewhere,
But better far to me,
The old farm has her miracles
That all can hear and see.

In anxious call of mother beasts
And coo of turtle dove,
The understanding heart discerns
The miracle of Love.
The miracle of Life and Death
Stands boldly on display,
When new-born things lie dead at birth—
A scrap of useless clay.

The yawning hill-gaps rugged cup
That holds the blood-red sun
Proclaims the miracle of Power
When day is nearly done.
The miracle of Spring each year
Arrives on tree and vine
No trouble on the farm at all
To prove a Power Divine.

VAN LEAR BLACK FALLS OVERBOARD HIS YACHT, DROWNS

Baltimore, Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—Van Lear Black, chairman of the board of the Baltimore Sun and noted air enthusiast and yachtsman, cruising off the New Jersey coast, fell overboard from his boat last night and was drowned, according to information received here today.

Black's enthusiasm for air travel had taken him into all sections of the world and he recently made an around-the-world flight.

The discovery that Black was missing was made when his valet went to the cabin of the yacht Sabolo about 10 o'clock last night to see if anything further was needed, before he retired for the night.

A search of the yacht was made immediately by direction of Capt. John J. Kelley, but Black could not be found. The yacht was turned about and searchlights used, but without avail.

One of Black's handkerchiefs was found on the deck.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—The navy department today ordered the dirigible Los Angeles to institute a search of the Atlantic ocean off Scotland Light for the body of Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, lost from a yacht last night en route from New York to Baltimore.

The navy department was informed of Black's disappearance in a message from Admiral Billard, commandant of the coast guard, who asked the navy's assistance. Billard said coast guard vessels were searching the waters off Scotland Light about 18 miles south of Ambrose channel, off the New Jersey coast.

MILLE LACS VETS INSTITUTE POST

1,000 Witness Colorful Rites in Front of Old County Court House at Princeton

Before a crowd of one thousand people, in a colorful, impressive open air ceremony, in the park in front of the old county court house at Princeton, a Milie Lacs County Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was instituted Sunday afternoon, August 17. The new Post is named the Brown-Robideau Post No. 1902, in honor of Jimmie Brown of Princeton, who was killed in France while serving with the 91st Division, and Real Robideau, who died while serving in the Tank Corps in the A. E. F.

Music was furnished by the Glenadadorado band. Presiding at the program, prior to the public institution, was Elden C. Burdick, National Adjutant of the Military Order of Cooties, on the platform were Mr. and Mrs. Brown, father and mother of Jimmie L. Brown, and Louis Robideau, father of Real Robideau, the gold star men whose names are to be commemorated by the Post. Z. L. Begin, Judge Advocate General of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke of the history and work that the organization is doing for the disabled men, and emphasized that it is not in competition with other service organization, but has always cooperated with all organization interested in the disabled. He told of the National Home for widows and orphans maintained at Eaton Rapids, Mich., on a farm of over 500 acres, where over 100 orphans are being given the same care, education and rearing that they would have had if their fathers had lived, and that this home was paid for, out of the dues of members and the proceeds of the Buddy Poppy sales, which have been endorsed by President Hoover, the American Federation of Labor, the churches, the Federated Women's clubs and thousands of other organizations. He said "The World War Pension bill will take care of the hundreds of thousands of disabled men who today are not getting any compensation for their disabilities, because they have been unable through red tape and lapse of time, to connect their disabilities with service. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, three years ago came out for a World War Pension Bill and when the last session of Congress passed it, they were the only service organization actively working for it, and credit for its passage is due to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The bill has defects but in substituting a comprehensive plan for the piecemeal, makeshift system, it is a great step forward."

Other speakers were A. George Johnson of Hopkins, Department Chief of Staff, and John Bowe of Canby, decorated three times for bravery in the Philippines, and three times while serving in the Foreign Legion in the World War, a past Department Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who spoke on the necessity of unity and cooperation among service organizations, and Dr. R. R. Heim, Department Commander, who spoke of the plans for recruiting in the state.

The ritual work was performed by the degree team of the Woodrow Wilson Post No. 1491, of Minneapolis, all dressed in snappy uniforms and led by Oscar J. Stearns, National Commander of the M. O. C.

The Post has 45 names on the Charter list and the following officers were elected to serve until 1931:

Roy Leach, Zimmerman, Commander.

John Heterich, Princeton, Senior Vice Commander.

Roy Robert, Princeton, Junior Vice Commander.

Dell Smithers, Zimmerman, Quartermaster.

R. L. Hanson, Zimmerman, Adjutant.

William Dugen, Princeton, Chaplain.

George Schurrer, Princeton, Officer of Day.

Fritz Anderson, Edgar Anderson and Roy Groff, Trustees.

The officers were installed by Louis A. Riesch of St. Paul, Department Adjutant. Delegations of Veterans of Foreign Wars from Anoka, Buffalo, Glenadadorado, Minneapolis, St. Cloud, St. Paul, Little Falls, Brainerd, Hopkins, Canby, William, Duluth, Palsade and Grand Rapids were present.

Post Commander Roy Leach stated that the new Post will cooperate with all other service organizations and that Milie Lacs men who have served on foreign soil or in hostile waters in any war of the United States, are invited to join the new post. Men joining within the next 60 days will be charter members of the post.

Dates and place of meetings were left to a committee appointed by the commander, notice of the same to be announced in the papers.

American Brains and the Soviet

AMERICAN brains are aiding the Soviet to increasing importance in the industrial world. One thousand engineers from the United States are striving for progress of Soviet business.

The great program of the Soviet in industrial expansion, a so-called five year program which has now been shortened to four years, is one to cause concern to other nations, for the Soviet is determined to excel in mass production whether it be manufacturing or in agricultural lines.

Here, in short, as collected by the Associated Press and given a Moscow date line, is a resume of activities.

The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics continues to import American, German and other foreign brains on a vast scale to convert the former backward agricultural country nation into a "collectivized" industrial state.

The latest official figures, and they went only to May 15, showed 1,377 specialists to high technical skill engaged in building up Russian industries. Of these 687 were from Germany and 452 from America, the others coming from France, England, Switzerland and a few other countries.

But the American movement is beginning to outstrip others and by the autumn there will be upwards of 1,000 American engineers striving to do for Russia what they have done already for their own country.

If the Communist rulers of the Soviet union succeed in their five-year industrialization plan, involving an expenditure of $34,000,000,000 or nearly the total of United States expense in the World war, many economic and financial authorities believe the Bolsheviks will challenge the world in the production of cheap commodities for export. They would then constitute a menace to the industries of America and Europe alike.

Thus while the United States government looks askance upon the Communist regime and refuses to recognize it officially, American engineers are helping to build up a modern, highly mechanized Russia which intends to compete openly with the United States.

Along with American brains, the Soviet government is importing millions of dollars worth of American machinery. This is going into new paper mills, hydroelectric power plants, railroads, textile mills, collective farms, packing, canning, automobile and tractor plants, coal mines and chemical enterprises. All of this must inevitably contribute enormously to Russia's growth as an industrial state of international magnitude.

Thus far, not an American dollar has gone into any Soviet enterprise, American business men agreeing only to advance credits to the Soviets for goods purchased. So far as known, the Communist government has never defaulted on a single obligation in this respect, which makes Americans all the more ready to do business with the Bolsheviks.

Moreover, not a single dollar has been advanced to the Soviet regime as a loan by any foreign government, which makes the industrial and agricultural achievements all the more remarkable in the eyes of experts.

There are in Russia at present about 600 American engineers, whose specialties embrace virtually every line of industrial and mechanical endeavor. Their combined salaries and fees are estimated at more than $5,000,000 a year.

The highest paid is Colonel Hugh L. Cooper of New York. He is supervising the building of a $120,000,000 hydroelectric power plant on the Dnieper river and his fee is said to be $500,000 a year, the amount being based on a percentage of the cost of the enterprise.

In Russian Turkestan Arthur Powell Davis of Oakland, Calif., formerly head of the United States reclamation service, is making irrigation surveys and drawing plans which, if adopted, may eventually make the Soviet union a competitor of the United States in cotton production. Similar high-grade American specialists have been hired by the Communist regime in almost every other branch of industry.

Thus America is faced with the anomaly of having its ablest engineers and technicians build up an alien country industrially which sooner or later, if the gigantic plans are fulfilled, may actively compete with and even undersell its own factories and enterprises.

It is acknowledged that the success of the Soviet's colossal industrial program, one-fourth of which has already been carried out, will depend largely upon the yield of successive crops, the ability of the government to get internal loans, the continued export in liberal quantities of Russian products, the success of the government in obtaining farm credits, and the capacity of the Russian people to undergo sacrifices in food, comfort and general welfare.

But that the government will succeed eventually, is now the opinion of many American observers who have studied the situation at first hand. If it does triumph, American engineering skill will have contributed no small part to the enterprise.

Chief Bender to Hurl

CHIEF ALBERT EDWARD BENDER, a native son of Brainerd who like Bullet Joe Bush has given the home town much publicity, will appear in a benefit game in the near future.

The ace of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics' pitching staff two decades ago is working out daily in Philadelphia. Chief Bender and other stars of baseball 20 years ago will line up in a benefit game at Boston on September 8.

Jack Coombs, a teammate of the famous Indian hurler, also will perform on the mound.

Keeping Up Lake Levels

OPPOSITION to the proposed nine-foot channel for the upper Mississippi river was voiced by Congressman Harold Knutson in an address before 100 residents of Star Island in Cass Lake and members of the Cass Lake Commercial club.

The meeting was called in celebration of the completion of the Cass Lake dam, constructed to maintain the level of the lake, and to honor Congressman Knutson for his part in securing the appropriation for the dam.

THE children of today are the citizens of tomorrow. Gaining the goodwill of 3,000 kiddies at Lum Park Saturday means much to the Park Board and the city at large.

COOLER temperatures will improve fishing in the Brainerd Lake area.

SWEETHEART MEMORIES
by Lawrence Hawthorne

Tonight I sat before the fire
And listened to the radio—
A program the announcer called
"The songs of twenty years ago";
And as the music filled the room
With long-forgotten melodies,
I lived the days of youth once more
In happy, wistful memories.

I saw my sweetheart as she sang
Those tender songs when they were new;
I heard her whispering again
That every loving word was true.
And oh, how beautiful she was!
How graceful and how sweet her dream
In joyous retrospect, I took
That little darling in my arms . . .

The program ended . . . Still I sat,
Enjoying happy thoughts of her
With whom I sang those fond refrains
When love's young dreams began to stir
And then a nestling hand sought mine
In just the way it used to do,
And someone said, "For twenty years
My heart has sung those songs to you."

Returns After Husband Reweds

She explained that she had been "out west." Her husband was married a second time on July 14. Left to right: Sheriff Everett Schoenfeld, of Windsor County; Mrs. Packard, and State Detective Edward Brown, of Montpelier, Vt.

And How!

Out in Ohio's rubber city, the Akron Beacon-Journal was asked to define a propagandist. The editor stretched a point in his reply. "A propagandist," said he, "is a person who can take a fragment of truth and make a large convincing lie."

We Do Not Know

American Brains and the Soviet

AMERICAN brains are aiding the Soviet to increasing importance in the industrial world. One thousand engineers from the United States are striving for progress of Soviet business.

The great program of the Soviet in industrial expansion, a so-called five year program which has now been shortened to four years, is one to cause concern to other nations, for the Soviet is determined to excel in mass production whether it be manufacturing or in agricultural lines.

Here, in short, as collected by the Associated Press and given a Moscow date line, is a resume of activities.

The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics continues to import American, German and other foreign brains on a vast scale to convert the former backward agricultural country nation into a "collectivized" industrial state.

The latest official figures, and they went only to May 15, showed 1,377 specialists to high technical skill engaged in building up Russian industries. Of these 687 were from Germany and 452 from America, the others coming from France, England, Switzerland and a few other countries.

But the American movement is beginning to outstrip others and by the autumn there will be upwards of 1,000 American engineers striving to do for Russia what they have done already for their own country.

If the Communist rulers of the Soviet union succeed in their five-year industrialization plan, involving an expenditure of $34,000,000,000 or nearly the total of United States expense in the World war, many economic and financial authorities believe the Bolsheviks will challenge the world in the production of cheap commodities for export. They would then constitute a menace to the industries of America and Europe alike.

Thus while the United States government looks askance upon the Communist regime and refuses to recognize it officially, American engineers are helping to build up a modern, highly mechanized Russia which intends to compete openly with the United States.

Along with American brains, the Soviet government is importing millions of dollars worth of American machinery. This is going into new paper mills, hydroelectric power plants, railroads, textile mills, collective farms, packing, canning, automobile and tractor plants, coal mines and chemical enterprises. All of this must inevitably contribute enormously to Russia's growth as an industrial state of international magnitude.

Thus far, not an American dollar has gone into any Soviet enterprise, American business men agreeing only to advance credits to the Soviets for goods purchased. So far as known, the Communist government has never defaulted on a single obligation in this respect, which makes Americans all the more ready to do business with the Bolsheviks.

Moreover, not a single dollar has been advanced to the Soviet regime as a loan by any foreign government, which makes the industrial and agricultural achievements all the more remarkable in the eyes of experts.

There are in Russia at present about 600 American engineers, whose specialties embrace virtually every line of industrial and mechanical endeavor. Their combined salaries and fees are estimated at more than $5,000,000 a year.

The highest paid is Colonel Hugh L. Cooper of New York. He is supervising the building of a $120,000,000 hydroelectric power plant on the Dnieper river and his fee is said to be $500,000 a year, the amount being based on a percentage of the cost of the enterprise.

In Russian Turkestan Arthur Powell Davis of Oakland, Calif., formerly head of the United States reclamation service, is making irrigation surveys and drawing plans which, if adopted, may eventually make the Soviet union a competitor of the United States in cotton production. Similar high-grade American specialists have been hired by the Communist regime in almost every other branch of industry.

Thus America is faced with the anomaly of having its ablest engineers and technicians build up an alien country industrially which sooner or later, if the gigantic plans are fulfilled, may actively compete with and even undersell its own factories and enterprises.

It is acknowledged that the success of the Soviet's colossal industrial program, one-fourth of which has already been carried out, will depend largely upon the yield of successive crops, the ability of the government to get internal loans, the continued export in liberal quantities of Russian products, the success of the government in obtaining farm credits, and the capacity of the Russian people to undergo sacrifices in food, comfort and general welfare.

But that the government will succeed eventually, is now the opinion of many American observers who have studied the situation at first hand. If it does triumph, American engineering skill will have contributed no small part to the enterprise.

Chief Bender to Hurl

CHIEF ALBERT EDWARD BENDER, a native son of Brainerd who like Bullet Joe Bush has given the home town much publicity, will appear in a benefit game in the near future.

The ace of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics' pitching staff two decades ago is working out daily in Philadelphia. Chief Bender and other stars of baseball 20 years ago will line up in a benefit game at Boston on September 8.

Jack Coombs, a teammate of the famous Indian hurler, also will perform on the mound.

Keeping Up Lake Levels

OPPOSITION to the proposed nine-foot channel for the upper Mississippi river was voiced by Congressman Harold Knutson in an address before 100 residents of Star Island in Cass Lake and members of the Cass Lake Commercial club.

The meeting was called in celebration of the completion of the Cass Lake dam, constructed to maintain the level of the lake, and to honor Congressman Knutson for his part in securing the appropriation for the dam.

The children of today are the citizens of tomorrow. Gaining the goodwill of 3,000 kiddies at Lum Park Saturday means much to the Park Board and the city at large.

COOLER temperatures will improve fishing in the Brainerd Lake area.

SWEETHEART MEMORIES
by Lawrence Hawthorne

Tonight I sat before the fire
And listened to the radio—
A program the announcer called
"The songs of twenty years ago";
And as the music filled the room
With long-forgotten melodies,
I lived the days of youth once more
In happy, wistful memories.

I saw my sweetheart as she sang
Those tender songs when they were new;
I heard her whispering again
That every loving word was true.
And oh, how beautiful she was!
How graceful and how sweet her dream!
In joyous retrospect, I took
That little darling in my arms . . .

The program ended . . . Still I sat,
Enjoying happy thoughts of her
With whom I sang those fond refrains
When love's young dreams began to stir
And then a nestling hand sought mine
In just the way it used to do,
And someone said, "For twenty years
My heart has sung those songs to you."

Returns After Husband Reweds

She explained that she had been "out west." Her husband was married a second time on July 14. Left to right: Sheriff Everett Schoenfeld, of Windsor County; Mrs. Packard, and State Detective Edward Brown, of Montpelier, Vt.

'LONG GEORGE' KELLY RETURNS TO THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—"Long George" Kelly, who helped the New York Giants win four consecutive National league pennants, returned to the major leagues today to aid the Chicago Cubs in their 1930 pennant drive.

Kelly was secured by the Cubs in a deal with the Minneapolis American association team, the Cubs sending Malcolm Moss, left handed rookie pitcher, to the Millers on optional recall, for Kelly and one other player to be named later.

RACE TRACK BETTING IS FLOURISHING

BELIEVED NOW TO BE A $450,000,000 INDUSTRY THIS YEAR

SURVEY MADE BY THE UNITED PRESS RECENTLY REVEALS THESE FIGURES

By THOMAS H. NOONE
(United Press Race Expert)
New York, Aug. 19.—Race track betting is flourishing as a $450,000,000 industry this year, oblivious of the economic crisis and the drought, according to a survey by the United Press.

Thousands of persons are involved, from those who place $1 on a horse they'll never see, to those who wager thousands and make the rounds of all the tracks.

Betting on the races, which the average man sees as a chance to satisfy the desire to get something for nothing, needs only the win of an outsider in a prominent race to spur it into increased activity.

Such was the win of Jim Dandy over Gallant Fox and Whicome in the Travers Stakes at Saratoga Springs last Saturday. Bookmakers believe Jim Dandy's win at 100 to 1 will increase their business for a week or two because many betters will figure: "If I had played $10 on Jim Dandy I'd have $1,000 now."

The estimate of $450,000,000, which must remain a guess because of the impossibility of computing wagers placed with bookmakers away from the tracks, is based on these figures:

Winter meetings in Louisiana and seasonal meetings in Ohio and West Virginia, $50,000,000; Maryland, $70,000,000; Kentucky, $50,000,000; Illinois, $85,000,000; New York, $80,000,000; hand books, American-Canadian and Mexican tracks, $150,000,000.

An indication of the accuracy of these figures may be obtained from the official report of Maryland. A total of $54,419,887 was wagered at the four one-mile tracks in 1929 and there are several half-mile tracks that would easily boost this figure to $70,000,000 on a conservative estimate.

Definite figures are obtainable in Maryland because that state, like Kentucky and Illinois, has the pari-mutuel system, whereby the better purchases a ticket. The state deducts a percentage, varying from 6 1/2 to 15. The number of tickets bought on each horse determines the odds.

In New York and Ohio betting is against the law, but loopholes are found. In this state wagers are made orally, while in Ohio the "contribution" system is vogue. By the latter system the better technically "contributes" to the expense of putting a horse in the race and assumes a right to part of its winnings.

Defects in Indian Music

Of indigenous music there could be only that of the Indian, writes Gaillard Hunt in "Life in America One Hundred Years Ago." The white man liked to learn many things from him, especially his woodcraft and some of his methods of fighting, but never cared to learn his music. In fact, the total method was so different that it was not music at all to white ears.

BROOKLYN LOSES HEART BREAKER TO PIRATES, 4-3

ROBINS HAD LEAD IN 3TH WITH GLENN WRIGHT'S HOME RUN

THEN THE PIRATES SCORED 2 RUNS IN THEIR HALF TO WIN

(By United Press)

The New York Giants, who have won 20 out of their last 26 starts, were but one point out of second place in the National League today when they resumed their series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Giants, idle on Monday, picked up half a game on the second-place Brooklyn Robins when that team lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

The Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game was a heart-breaker for the Robins. After Glenn Wright had given the Robins the lead in the ninth with a home run, the Pirates scored two in their half to win. Bartell's double with the bases loaded drove in the winning runs.

The Chicago Cubs hit vigorously to trim the Phillies, 17 to 3, and increase their lead to three and one-half games. Hack Wilson advanced to within two home runs of the National League record when he hit his 42nd of the season in the eighth inning.

Other National League clubs were not scheduled.

George Earnshaw hung up his 19th victory of the season as the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 4. Trailing by two runs when they went to bat in the sixth the Athletics drove Walter Stewart from the mound to score the winning runs. The victory enabled the A's to maintain their eight and one-half game leadership of the American League.

The New York Yankees swamped Chicago by a score of 11 to 4. The second-place Washington Senators nosed out Detroit, 5 to 4. The Cleveland-Boston game was rained out.

American Association Tabs

Minneapolis, Aug. 19.—Nick Cullop, Minneapolis left fielder, held the American Association home run crown today with his record of 43 this season. His homer yesterday not only broke the record but helped Minneapolis take a 14 to 10 victory from Toledo.

St. Paul, Aug. 19.—Columbus took their only game of the series with St. Paul yesterday when they defeated the Saints, 7 to 3.

Milwaukee, Aug. 19.—Milwaukee came out at the big end of the series with Indianapolis here yesterday by taking the final game, 3 to 1. Milwaukee took three games of the four-game series.

Louisville at Kansas City, postponed, rain.

No "Perpetual Motion"

If such a thing as a perpetual machine were possible, running by itself without fuel or other form of external energy, it would be of immense value to mankind, producing energy from nothing. According to the law of the conservation of energy, however, the energy of the universe is constant and can be neither created nor destroyed.

SHAMROCK V POLISHED UP

PERCHES HIGH ON MARINE RAILWAY, AWAITS THE SCRAPER'S TOOLS

By SIDNEY WHIPPLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New London, Conn., Aug. 19.—Perched high on a marine railway and looking a bit weary of it all, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V today awaited the scraper's tools and the painter's brush.

Shamrock V was hauled out of the water late Monday and its underbody revealed on this side of the Atlantic for the first time.

Captain Ned Heard, who will sail the sloop in the America's Cup races, was highly pleased when he found the boat had weathered the long, rough trip in perfect shape.

The challenger's bottom was smooth and clean and her planking without a ripple. She was in racing condition except for a few barnacles and oil marks near the stern.

Painters, using a special paint brought from England, will dress her up today, painting her boot-top white and her top-sides a lively green.

Present plans call for the Shamrock to be launched late today or Wednesday. After a short trial spin she will proceed to Newport.

HACK WILSON HITS HIS 43RD HOME RUN

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs outfielder, hit his 43rd home run of the year in the seventh inning of the first game with Philadelphia today, tying the National league record, set by Chuck Klein, of Philadelphia, in 1929.

MONKEY DOES HIS STEALING FOR HIM

That's How Burglar's Reformation Worked.

Mexico City.—Chapultepec zoo is serving not only as the residence of offending beasts, whose only mission is to entertain the crowds, but also as a prison for a monkey arrested by capital police as the confederate of a notorious burglar.

Benito Hernandez, renowned as a second story worker, last year convinced police authorities here that he had reformed. A suspicious crowd, the detectives who had many times caught him redhanded at his illicit work, continued for months to watch him carefully. Their most sagacious agents, however, were unable to observe the least outward sign in Hernandez' activities.

Now, police charge, it has been revealed that the reformed-burglar's period of good behavior was devoted to training a monkey of unusual intelligence, which in recent weeks has been performing crimes as neatly as his master used to do. Authorities believe a long series of robberies in the Tacubaya district were solved when Mrs. Maria Barrientos discovered the monkey in the act of robbing her home. The policeman she called experienced the greatest difficulty in following the agile culprit over the roof tops to the nearby home of Hernandez.

In the latter's rooms were found dozens of articles recently stolen in the neighborhood. Hernandez pleaded he was not responsible for his pet's acquisitive habits, and that he had been unable to return the articles because their owners were unknown to him. He is held in jail.

WITH the National A. A. U. championships at hand and most of the country's best athletes moving toward Pittsburgh, where the big meet starts this week-end, it becomes clear that Uncle Sam has the largest array of great sprinters ever active at any given time in sports history. Just think of these "century" flashes: Wykoff, Simpson, Bracey, Leland, Tolman and Dyer, just to mention a half dozen of those who consistently do the hundred in less than 10 seconds.

At this writing "Hec" Dyer, of Stanford, and Eddie Tolan, Michigan's "Midnight Express," would appear to be what turfmen call "the class" for that hundred-yard field at Pittsburgh, although the general meaning of "class" might fit that word to every entry in that event.

Reports have it that both Dyer and Tolan will try to lower the world's record from 9.4-10 to 9.3-10 in the national championships, and, if conditions are right, some enthusiasts think that Pittsburgh will witness the first realization of the fabulous 9.1-5 time for the hundred.
Dyer's natural rival and fellow Californian, Frank Wykoff, holds that 9.4-10 world's record. "Hec" has beaten Frank occasionally, but thus far Wykoff has a good lead over Dyer in number of victories won in the 100, not the 220, dash. They are warm rivals—just as are their universities. ## 100 MEN, WOMEN TO TEE OFF FOR TROPHIES, PRIZES

QUALIFYING ROUNDS IN MORNING; MATCH PLAY IN AFTERNOON

FINALS IN CHAMPIONSHIP AND VARIOUS FLIGHTS THURSDAY AFTERNOON

GAINS CENTRAL STATE TOURNAMENT NEXT YEAR

Next summer's Central State golf tournament which will attract over 200 golfers from central Minnesota, will be played at the Pine Beach golf course on Gull lake the latter part of June, it became known here today.

The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and in honors, for but one thing—initiative. And what is initiative? It is doing the right thing without being told.—Elbert Hubbard

No "Perpetual Motion"
If such a thing as a perpetual machine were possible, running by itself without fuel or other form of external energy, it would be of immense value to mankind, producing energy from nothing. According to the law of the conservation of energy, however, the energy of the universe is constant and can be neither created nor destroyed.

EDDIE TOLAN AND (left) "HEC" DYER ARE THE TWO FASTEST SPRINTERS IN AMERICA WHEN THEY GET UNDER WAY—BUT POOR STARTING FORM OFTEN MARS THEIR SPEED!

WITH the National A. A. U. championships at hand and most of the country's best athletes moving toward Pittsburgh, where the big meet starts this week-end, it becomes clear that Uncle Sam has the largest array of great sprinters ever active at any given time in sports history. Just think of these "century" flashes: Wyckoff, Simpson, Bracey, Leland, Tolan and Dyer, just to mention a half dozen of those who consistently do the hundred in less than 10 seconds.

At this writing "Hec" Dyer, of Stanford, and Eddie Tolan, Michigan's "Midnight Express," would appear to be what turfmen call "the class" for that hundred-yard field at Pittsburgh, although the general meaning of "class" might fit that word to every entry in that event.

Reports have it that both Dyer and Tolan will try to lower the world's record from 9.4-10 to 9.3-10 in the national championships, and, if conditions are right, some enthusiasts think that Pittsburgh will witness the first realization of the fabulous 9.1-5 time for the hundred.

Dyer's natural rival and fellow Californian, Frank Wyckoff, holds that 9.4-10 world's record. "Hec" has beaten Frank occasionally, but thus far Wyckoff has a good lead over Dyer in number of victories won in the 100, not the 220, dash. They are warm rivals—just as are their universities. Southern California Trojans back their Wyckoff, while Stanford Cardinals insist that Dyer is the faster.

From a neutral viewpoint, a majority of track experts will favor the stocky and dusky Tolan—in fact, some believe this ebullient wonder would be the swiftest sprinter in the whole world if he can cure his defective starts. Eddie usually loses at least a yard or two at the gun, and that's a horrible handicap in any dash. They do say the sable sensation is starting better of late.

And, as Andy might remark: "Pittsburgh, Amos, is jes' the spot for that cullud boy, Tolan, to accelerate some! Jes' watch 'is smoke at Pittsburgh—jes' watch dat smoke!"

SHAMROCK V POLISHED UP

PERCHES HIGH ON MARINE RAILWAY, AWAITS THE SCRAPER'S TOOLS

By SIDNEY WHIPPLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New London, Conn., Aug. 19.—Perched high on a marine railway and looking a bit weary of it all, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V today awaited the scraper's tools and the painter's brush.

Shamrock V was hauled out of the water late Monday and its underbody revealed on this side of the Atlantic for the first time.

Captain Ned Heard, who will sail the sloop in the America's Cup races, was highly pleased when he found the boat had weathered the long, rough trip in perfect shape.

The challenger's bottom was smooth and clean and her planking without a ripple. She was in racing condition except for a few barnacles and oil marks near the stern.

Painters, using a special paint brought from England, will dress her up today, painting her boot-top white and her top-sides a lively green.

Present plans call for the Shamrock to be launched late today or Wednesday. After a short trial spin she will proceed to Newport.

Down With Stockton

By JANE OSBORN

IT WAS an unwritten law in the Stockton family that college students were not to be considered in the light of possible husbands—at least students in Gleason college where Doctor Stockton had reigned as president for these twenty years. The four older daughters had followed this rule and found husbands elsewhere. Lucy Stockton remained, living a solitary enough existence with her father and the old housekeeper.

Lucy was twenty, but she had come to the conclusion that if one couldn't marry a Gleason student then it was a waste of time to notice them at all. She saw them by the hundreds at college celebrations; she even talked to them occasionally when they appeared as a matter of duty at the president's receptions. But the best looking straightest limbed athlete among them did not concern her more than the most bow-legged, stoop-shouldered, bespectacled little grind. They were just students belonging to a sort of third sex so far as Lucy was concerned.

And Lucy's air of complete disinterest rather pleased her pedagogical father, for Lucy was quite the prettiest of his daughters, and there was an archness about her eyes and a daintiness to her rather short nose that indicated a streak of flirtatiousness in her nature. There had been times, when Lucy was much younger when Doctor Stockton had felt concern. It really would never do to have one of the girls marry one of them at the college. If they did, it might seem as if he, the eminently dignified Doctor Stockton, had considered this a desirable territory in which to bring up five marriageable daughters.

Lucy had an inkling that she was rather pretty and she sometimes used to dream of a time when she could be miles and miles from Gleason with plenty of men, none of them from Gleason, to flirt with.

She was thinking such thoughts to herself one spring evening when she heard some sort of commotion in the street outside. There were voices—student voices, she knew. In the window she could see reflections of torches—they were carrying torches of some sort. And then quite clearly right before the house, she heard the shouts:

"Down with Stockton, down with Stockton. We don't want Stockton!" For Lucy it was a terrible ten minutes while the students—the entire student body, it seemed to her—stood there insulting her father in this way. What made the situation more difficult for her was that her father was away. He had suddenly left town that afternoon, telling her that he wished to consult with the chairman of the board of trustees of the college on some urgent matter. He would have to be away from home for four or five days.

Fortunately the housekeeper was deaf and lived at the back of the house. Whatever was done Lucy would have to do alone. And what Lucy did was to go downstairs, snarl on the electric light on the front porch and deliberately go out and face the mob of students. The torches they carried glorified the slender, womanly figure there and her face, always pretty, seemed exquisitely beautiful. There was a startling silence. She had no difficulty in making her voice heard. "My father is away," she told them. "I do not know what this all means, but I am glad that he is not here to feel the humiliation that you have made me feel."

There was a stir among them, and then it was that George Harlowe, best looking, straightest limbed young athlete among them, sprang to the veranda. As president of the undergraduate association he took it upon himself to offer some sort of appropriate apology.

"We have gone too far," he said and cheers from the students assured him that the mob agreed with him. "See here, fellows," he said, leaning over the railing of the porch, the light glorifying his handsome young features, too, "shall we apologize to Miss Stockton?"

A deafening chorus of "apologize, apologize," was the answer and then the mob dispersed and George Harlowe and Lucy stood alone. George explained the situation. President Stockton had expelled four of the most popular men and best athletes in the senior class on some very flimsy pretext. So in a mass meeting they had requested the reinstatement of the students. Doctor Stockton had replied by debarring the student officers who had presented the petition from all athletic activities for the remainder of the year. There was another mass meeting and they had passed a resolution to request President Stockton's resignation.

Lucy knew none of the preliminaries, but her father had evidently been sufficiently alarmed to go to consult the president of the board of trustees.

When President Stockton returned the next day the first thing he did was to reinstate the students. His friend, the chairman of the trustees, had advised it. And Lucy held her peace.

That spring she told her father that she was going to marry George. Perhaps President Stockton had heard something of the episode before his house when he was away. At all events he had no protest to make.

Ford Plane Inaugurates Air Mail to Canaries

OVERSEA air mail service between Madrid, the capital of Spain, and the Canary Islands, Spanish possessions in the South Atlantic, has just been successfully inaugurated with a Ford tri-motor transport land plane, according to reports received by the Ford Motor Company.

The advent of the new service was hailed by Spanish newspapers as an outstanding event in Spanish aviation, reducing as it does the travel time between the Spanish peninsula and the Canary Islands by many hours and closely linking the island possessions to the kingdom.

Passes Over Sahara

The route of the Ford transport on its flight to and from the islands carried the plane over the broiling Spanish Sahara, with a long jump over water to Las Palmas and Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The outbound flight, with stops for fuel at Casablanca and Cabo Juby, required 14 hours.

On its return flight, the party of officials who inaugurated the service, including Cesar Gomez, director of Classa Air Lines, which operates the services to the Canaries as well as between Madrid, Seville and Barcelona, and Ernesto Navarro, technical adviser of the National Aeronautical Bureau, participated for three days in the search of the Sahara for the Spanish military pilots Burguete and Nunez, who had been forced down in the desert.

During this search, the party in the Ford plane combed the Sahara from the air over a strip of territory 300 kilometers inland from the coast.

The search ended when the lost fliers found their way to an outpost and reported themselves safe.

Throughout the difficult flights over the desert and despite the terrific heat the plane's three Wright J-6 motors functioned perfectly, the pilots, Ansaldo and Soriano, reported following the return of the party to Madrid. The plane, being equipped with radio, was in constant communication with the Spanish military base at Cabo Juby during the flights.

Daily Flight Planned

Upon his return to Madrid Pilot Ansaldo reported that in the round trip flight between Madrid and the Canary Islands and the flights over the desert in search of the lost aviators the plane had flown 8,000 kilometers, approximately 5,000 miles, with perfect performance.

The inaugural flight in the Ford plane, which the Classa line had operated in regular service between

Madrid, Seville and Barcelona, was preliminary to the regular operation of the service between Spain and the Canaries with amphibian planes. The service at first will be weekly but later it is planned to put it on a daily basis.

A gathering of distinguished Spanish civil officials, including Minister of the Interior Matos, participated in the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of the service when the plane departed from Madrid.

Large crowds greeted the plane and its party at both Las Palmas and Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The plane carried in addition to the pilots and the official party two mechanics, a radio operator, large consignments of mail and bundles of the Madrid newspaper "La Vanguardia."

Valuable Chemical

The statement has been made that barium is worth $12,000,000 an ounce, but not because of its scarcity or value—because of the work it does. Barium is a chemical element that is used to coat the filament of vacuum tubes with a saving of $400,000 per gram of barium used. At this rate an ounce would be worth $12,000,000.

There was a stir among them, and then it was that George Harlowe, best looking, straightest limbed young athlete among them, sprang to the veranda. As president of the undergraduate association he took it upon himself to offer some sort of appropriate apology.

"We have gone too far," he said, and cheers from the students assured him that the mob agreed with him. "See here, fellows," he said, leaning over the railing of the porch, the light glorifying his handsome young features, too, "shall we apologize to Miss Stockton?"

A deafening chorus of "apologize, apologize," was the answer and then the mob dispersed and George Harlowe and Lucy stood alone. George explained the situation. President Stockton had expelled four of the most popular men and best athletes in the senior class on some very flimsy pretext. So in a mass meeting they had requested the reinstatement of the students. Doctor Stockton had replied by debarring the student officers who had presented the petition from all athletic activities for the remainder of the year. There was another mass meeting and they had passed a resolution to request President Stockton's resignation.

Lucy knew none of the preliminaries, but her father had evidently been sufficiently alarmed to go to consult the president of the board of trustees.

When President Stockton returned the next day the first thing he did was to reinstate the students. His friend, the chairman of the trustees, had advised it. And Lucy heard her peace.

That spring she told her father that she was going to marry George. Perhaps President Stockton had heard something of the episode before his house when he was away. At all events he had no protest to make.

Ford Plane Inaugurates Air Mail to Canaries

OVERSEA air mail service between Madrid, the capital of Spain, and the Canary Islands, Spanish possessions in the South Atlantic, has just been successfully inaugurated with a Ford tri-motor transport land plane, according to reports received by the Ford Motor Company.

The advent of the new service was hailed by Spanish newspapers as an outstanding event in Spanish aviation, reducing as it does the travel time between the Spanish peninsula and the Canary Islands by many hours and closely linking the island possessions to the kingdom.

Passes Over Sahara

The route of the Ford transport on its flight to and from the islands carried the plane over the broiling Spanish Sahara, with a long jump over water to Las Palmas and Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The outbound flight, with stops for fuel at Casablanca and Cabo Juby, required 14 hours.

On its return flight, the party of officials who inaugurated the service, including Cesar Gomez, director of Classa Air Lines, which operates the services to the Canaries as well as between Madrid, Seville and Barcelona, and Ernesto Navarro, technical adviser of the National Aeronautical Bureau, participated for three days in the search of the Sahara for the Spanish military pilots Burguete and Nunez, who had been forced down in the desert.

During this search, the party in the Ford plane combed the Sahara from the air over a strip of territory 300 kilometers inland from the coast. The search ended when the lost fliers found their way to an outpost and reported themselves safe.

Throughout the difficult flights over the desert and despite the terrrible heat the plane's three Wright J-6 motors functioned perfectly, the pilots, Ansaldo and Soriano, reported following the return of the party to Madrid. The plane, being equipped with radio, was in constant communication with the Spanish military base at Cabo Juby during the flights.

Daily Flight Planned

Upon his return to Madrid Pilot Ansaldo reported that in the round trip flight between Madrid and the Canary Islands and the flights over the desert in search of the lost aviators the plane had flown 8,000 kilometers, approximately 5,000 miles, with perfect performance.

The inaugural flight in the Ford plane, which the Classa line had operated in regular service between

Madrid, Seville and Barcelona, was preliminary to the regular operation of the service between Spain and the Canaries with amphibian planes. The service at first will be weekly but later it is planned to put it on a daily basis.

A gathering of distinguished Spanish civil officials, including Minister of the Interior Matos, participated in the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of the service when the plane departed from Madrid. Large crowds greeted the plane and its party at both Las Palmas and Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The plane carried in addition to the pilots and the official party two mechanics, a radio operator, large consignments of mail and bundles of the Madrid newspaper "La Vanguardia."

Thursday afternoon. They played games and a lunch was enjoyed by the children.

Valuable Chemical

The statement has been made that barium is worth $12,000,000 an ounce, but not because of its scarcity or value—because of the work it does. Barium is a chemical element that is used to coat the filament of vacuum tubes with a saving of $400,000 per gram of barium used. At this rate an ounce would be worth $12,000,000.

INCREASE CERTAIN IN CITY'S TAX LEVY

Cost of Audit by State Blamed Partially for Rise in City's Expenses

DETERMINED NEXT MONTH

Reduction by County Should Place Total Levy on Equal Basis of Last Year

An increase in the tax levy to defray the city's expenses for the ensuing year of at least one mill and likely two mills was predicted at the meeting of the city council last evening.

Alderman V. F. Anderson, chairman of the finance committee, said he would call a meeting soon of the committee and prepare the estimates for presentation in September when the levy will be determined.

The audit of the city books by the state was blamed partially for the rise in the levy. The audit will represent approximately three quarters of a mill.

To the tax payers in the city of Brainerd the levy in the whole will be approximately the same as last year or possibly a small reduction due to the fact that the county commissioners reduced the county tax rate this year over three mills.

This reduction of the county from $281,500 to $242,000 this year is accounted for by the fact that the bond sinking fund of $25,000 made in previous years is no longer necessary and there being a surplus in the sanatorium fund, a levy of $7,000 will suffice this year against a levy for the previous year of $12,500 while last year's interest levy of $20,000 was cut to $10,000 this year.

Relations Strained

President V. E. Quansstrom and Alderman Andrew Wesley engaged in a verbal battle last evening which resulted after heated words in President Quansstrom ruling Alderman Wesley out of order and proceeding with business.

The argument started when Wesley charged discrimination against the manager of the "Hollywood Studio," Front street, because the picture display box projected beyond city requirements over the sidewalk.

Wesley suggested that should the ordinance be enforced there, any others of similar nature, should be checked up on.

Quansstrom held that City Engineer R. T. Campbell did not have the time to go throughout the city measuring distances of barber poles, etc., and suggested that Wesley take a rule and do this work himself and then offer the complaints to the city.

When Quansstrom demanded to know what Wesley's motion was on the discussion and receiving in reply a discussion of the situation the president ruled the alderman out of order and proceeded with the regular form of business.

Police Force Rapped

President Quansstrom took occasion to rap the police department when the problem was presented of motorists parking over the yellow lines at curbs. "It is the police department's duty to enforce this. What have we got police for. To stand on R. D. King's corner and talk and look wise," asserted President Quansstrom who stated that he was receiving kicks every day of policemen standing around.

Appeal to President

President Donnelly of the Northern Pacific railway will be appealed to for action regarding the paving of between the tracks of the Eighth street crossing.

The council took such action after letters had been received from sub officials of the road stating that the work would be done next spring.

Letters from these officials will be enclosed in the letter to Mr. Donnelly when the entire situation is presented to him.

Licenses Turned Down

The request of J. W. Bollig for licenses to operate two gasoline pumps at the corner of 9th and Front streets was on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and W. J. Hall not granted, the council holding the view that the pumps would be located too close to the sidewalk.

Likewise a petition from R. J. Potter asking for license to operate a two pump gasoline station on South Sixth street north of Buffalo creek was turned down because the pumps were located too close to the pavement.

Potter explained to the council that a contractor from the country who was not familiar with city ordinances constructed the station. No plans of the station were presented to the city engineer before construction was started.

Alderman Ritari asked more time on the matter of reduction of gasoline pump licenses in the city. The matter had been referred to his committee at the last meeting of the council after a delegation of oil men in the city had asked a reduction of licenses.

Street Width Fixed

Fifteen feet of the east side of North First street between Ivy and Juniper streets will be vacated, the council voted in passing the resolution establishing the width of the street there as 65 feet from property line to property line.

Curbing of that section of the street was referred to the city engineer to return an estimate of the cost and the establishment of grade.

A committee of the Brainerd volunteer fire department petitioned the council to pay dues of $5 a year for each fireman during the ensuing year.

"It doesn't seem quite fair for the firemen to pay that out of their pockets," Alderman V. F. Anderson said.

The request was referred to the finance committee to consider in compiling the budget for the year. Fifty firemen were included in the request.

Orders Closing of Business

Because he failed to comply with an order to clean up, the council on motion of Aldermen Hall and Wesley ordered Miles Guin "to close up shop" at his place of business on North 3rd street between Front and Laurel.

Fire Chief Frank Fuller and Driver Reinhart were named delegates to attend the Northwest Fire School at Minneapolis September 22-26.

On motion of Aldermen Elvig and Hall, City Engineer Campbell was instructed to erect a building for the convenience of the attendant at the city dumping grounds.

GANGSTER RUMORS ARE CIRCULATED

Minneapolis Has Visions of Bugs Moran and Henchmen Motoring to Brainerd and Lake Country

In these days of rumors and counter rumors regarding gangsters, it's a quiet day when some one has no vision of Bugs Moran or Capone. The latest Minneapolis rumor reaching Brainerd this morning was to the effect that Bugs Moran and a number of faithful henchmen had motored to Brainerd and the lake country in several cars and were to have a meeting in the woods on the bank of some lake.

City and county authorities had not seen Moran or even heard a rumor about him.

People out in the lake country nowadays pay no more attention to new neighbors than do the tenants in a large apartment house. Any stranger in the lake country is looked upon as just another tourist.

Whipping was one of the most common of punishments and a severe one, in Colonial times. Men were whipped for all sorts of offenses. Another man was whipped for traveling unnecessarily on the Sabbath.

RANGERS ON GUARD IN FIRE SECTIONS

100 Men Kept at Fire Which Touches Three Counties; New Ones Reported

A hundred rangers stood guard today to prevent forest fires in Crow Wing, Cass and Aitkin counties from being blown out of control by high winds.

Forest rangers reported that unless a high wind swept across the north woods, the fires would be kept under control although they were encountering difficulties from the dry conditions in the woods.

Estimates that approximately 4,000 acres had been burned over were made today. The fires were scattered over the three counties and were regarded as serious.

E. H. Rhodes, district forest ranger reported today that new fires which sprung up yesterday were under control before they had swept over five acres. These fires are located south of Motley, northwest of Pillager, and northwest of Crosby.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 19.—(UP)—A back fire started last night extended into the Mad River Indian reservation today in the hopes of confining forest fires which have threatened to destroy the village of Marengo and Six Farms.

S. G. Wilson, chief forest fire warden of the conservation commission arrived from Madison to direct the fire fighting operations.

He has divided the fighters into battalions in order to secure more effective work to cover the endangered territory.

Smoke continues to hover over Ashland and the entire Chequamegon Bay region.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Fire prevention display engagements at county fairs for the entire week were cancelled by the state conservation commission, it was announced today. All fire fighting equipment that was to be included in the displays are needed in northern Wisconsin where forest fires are burning over wide fronts.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Forest fires in a section of jack pine just east of Cedar Lake in northern Manitoba were under control today and the crew of fire rangers was reduced to five men whose duty was to watch the dying fires and spread the alarm if they flamed up again.

Robert Harvey, district fire ranger at Mile 42, today estimated that fires had burned over 3,000 acres. The loss will be low, he pointed out, because the timber was not of high grade. The fire had been smouldering for more than three weeks and was difficult to control, rangers said.

Grand Rapids, the nearest settlement, was 16 miles away from the fire, which at no time threatened to burn over a colony.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Will be Questioned When His Condition Permits; Cared for at Hospital Here

M. E. Wheeler, 70 year old Pillager farmer, lay in the St. Joseph's hospital today in a serious condition while authorities of Cass county puzzled over circumstances of his disappearance and finding.

Wheeler disappeared from his home last Friday morning at 9 o'clock while he was picking weeds in his garden. He was found yesterday afternoon in an unconscious condition in the hay loft of a building on his farm. The door leading to the loft was locked from the outside and the aged man was covered with sacks. He was rushed immediately to the Brainerd hospital.

As soon as his condition permits Sheriff Morical of Walker will question him.

Licenses Turned Down
The request of J. W. Bollig for licenses to operate two gasoline pumps at the corner of 9th and Front streets was on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and W. J. Hall not granted, the council holding the view that the pumps would be located too close to the sidewalk.

Likewise a petition from R. J. Potter asking for license to operate a two pump gasoline station on South Sixth street north of Buffalo creek was turned down because the pumps were located too close to the pavement.

Potter explained to the council that a contractor from the country who was not familiar with city ordinances constructed the station. No plans of the station were presented to the city engineer before construction was started.

Alderman Ritari asked more time on the matter of reduction of gasoline pump licenses in the city. The matter had been referred to his committee at the last meeting of the council after a delegation of oil men in the city had asked a reduction of licenses.

Street Width Fixed
Fifteen feet of the east side of North First street between Ivy and Juniper streets will be vacated, the council voted in passing the resolution establishing the width of the street there as 65 feet from property line to property line.

Curbing of that section of the street was referred to the city engineer to return an estimate of the cost and the establishment of grade.

A committee of the Brainerd volunteer fire department petitioned the council to pay dues of $6 a year for each fireman during the ensuing year.

"It doesn't seem quite fair for the firemen to pay that out of their pockets," Alderman V. F. Anderson said.

The request was referred to the finance committee to consider in compiling the budget for the year. Fifty firemen were included in the request.

Orders Closing of Business
Because he failed to comply with an order to clean up, the council on motion of Aldermen Hall and Wesley ordered Miles Guin "to close up shop" at his place of business on North 3rd street between Front and Laurel.

Fire Chief Frank Fuller and Driver Reinhart were named delegates to attend the Northwest Fire School at Minneapolis September 22-26.

On motion of Aldermen Elvig and Hall, City Engineer Campbell was instructed to erect a building for the convenience of the attendant at the city dumping grounds.

GANGSTER RUMORS ARE CIRCULATED
Minneapolis Has Visions of Bugs Moran and Henchmen Motoring to Brainerd and Lake Country

In these days of rumors and counter rumors regarding gangsters, it's a quiet day when some one has no vision of Bugs Moran or Capone. The latest Minneapolis rumor reaching Brainerd this morning was to the effect that Bugs Moran and a number of faithful henchmen had motored to Brainerd and the lake country in several cars and were to have a meeting in the woods on the bank of some lake.

City and county authorities had not seen Moran or even heard a rumor about him.

People out in the lake country nowadays pay no more attention to news neighbors than do the tenants in a large apartment house. Any stranger in the lake country is looked upon as just another tourist.

PLANE VISITS CITY

Japan's Floating Prison
By converting an old warship into a prison ship, Japan has taken a modern step toward an ancient custom. This prison ship, however, is different. Only youthful delinquents are accommodated, and they are taught navigation, fishing and other occupations of the sea so that at the end of their prison terms they will be more useful to society and will increase the maritime power of Japan.

Harsh Colonial Rule
Whipping was one of the most common of punishments and a severe one. In Colonial times, men were whipped for all sorts of offenses. In 1643 a man was severely whipped in Salem for sleeping during the minister's sermon and for taking a pass at the man who woke him up. Another man was whipped for traveling unnecessarily on the Sabbath.

To place one kernel of wheat on the first square of a chess board, two on the second, four on the third, eight on the fourth, and so on, 18,446,744,073,709,551,615 kernels would be required for the 64 squares.

RANGERS ON GUARD IN FIRE SECTIONS

100 Men Kept at Fire Which Touches Three Counties; New Ones Reported

A hundred rangers stood guard today to prevent forest fires in Crow Wing, Cass and Aitkin counties from being blown out of control by high winds.

Forest arrangers reported that unless a high wind swept across the north woods, the fires would be kept under control although they were encountering difficulties from the dry conditions in the woods.

Estimates that approximately 4,000 acres had been burned over were made today. The fires were scattered over the three counties and were regarded as serious.

E. H. Rhodes, district forest ranger reported today that new fires which sprang up yesterday were under control before they had swept over five acres. These fires are located south of Motley, northwest of Pillager, and northwest of Crosby.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 19.—(UP)—A back fire started last night extended into the Mad River Indian reservation today in the hopes of confining forest fires which have threatened to destroy the village of Marengo and Six Farms.

S. G. Wilson, chief forest fire warden of the conservation commission arrived from Madison to direct the fire fighting operations.

He has divided the fighters into battalions in order to secure more effective work to cover the endangered territory.

Smoke continues to hover over Ashland and the entire Chequamegon Bay region.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Fire prevention display engagements at county fairs for the entire week were cancelled by the state conservation commission, it was announced today.

All fire fighting equipment that was to be included in the displays are needed in northern Wisconsin where forest fires are burning over wide fronts.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Forest fires in a section of jack pine just east of Cedar Lake in northern Manitoba were under control today and the crew of fire rangers was reduced to five men whose duty was to watch the dying fires and spread the alarm if they flamed up again.

Robert Harvey, district fire ranger at Mile 42, today estimated that fires had burned over 3,000 acres. The loss will be low, he pointed out, because the timber was not of high grade. The fire had been smoldering for more than three weeks and was difficult to control, rangers said.

Grand Rapids, the nearest settlement, was 16 miles away from the fire, which at no time threatened to burn over a colony.

AGED MAN FOUND LOCKED IN LOFT

Cass County Authorities Investigate Circumstances of Pillager Man's Disappearance

IN SERIOUS CONDITION
Will be Questioned When His Condition Permits; Cared for at Hospital Here

M. E. Wheeler, 70 year old Pillager farmer, lay in the St. Joseph's hospital today in a serious condition while authorities of Cass county puzzled over circumstances of his disappearance and finding.

Wheeler disappeared from his home last Friday morning at 9 o'clock while picking weeds in his garden. He was found yesterday afternoon in an unconscious condition in the hay loft of a building on his farm. The door leading to the loft was locked from the outside and the aged man was covered with sacks. He was rushed immediately to the Brainerd hospital.

As soon as his condition permits Sheriff Morical of Walker will question him.

W. C. T. U. Holds Its Regular Monthly Meet

The Women's Christian Temperance Union made plans for an exhibit at the county fair at their regular monthly meeting held at the home of Mrs. John Zander. Mrs. Grondin will be in charge.

The following were unanimously elected directors: Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Fallquist, Mrs. Kufus, Mrs. Angel, Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Michaelson.

Plans for entertaining the teachers of the public schools early in the school year were discussed and it was decided to have a chicken dinner for them on September 5. The church in which the dinner will be held and the program will be announced later.

Mrs. Helen Grondin will be a delegate at the state convention to be held at Winona from Sept. 10 to 13. Mrs. Grondin will appoint another delegate to make the trip with her.

A luncheon was served before the meeting adjourned.

Tang of the Sea

THE whaling ship "Sally Simms" carries Capt. Noll Wing and his youthful bride Faith on their honeymoon trip. The witchery of the sea takes away from her the man she loves and leaves in his stead a hard-bitten, hard-drinking whaling captain.

Spice of Romance

ROMANCE creeps into this situation when it was most unexpected and jealousy and suspicion add their bits to complicate the trying situation in which Faith finds herself on her honeymoon.

Pepper of Action

UNEXPECTED drama and the happy solution of Faith's predicament are brought about because sailors are a two-fisted, slugging lot, given to action rather than soft words. It is one of the reasons "The Sea Bride" has everything!

The Galton law of filial regression states that the tendency of the children of unusual parents is to approximate more nearly to the common type of the family or stock. GRIM "HANGOVER"
TO LIQUOR PARTY

"CONVICT INTELLECTUALS" ATTEMPTED TO DISPEL THE GLOOM OF PRISON LIFE. San Quentin State Prison, Calif., Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—A grim "hangover" to-day followed the liquor party yesterday in which a group of "convict intellectuals" attempted to chase away the gloom from prison life.

One man was dead, two others believed dying and a fourth in a serious condition from wood alcohol poisoning.

The four represented the best element in the institution, according to officials. Charles J. Brown, 30, the dead man, was associate editor of the Bulletin, prison magazine; Joe Mackin, 29, blind, was foreman of the printshop; George Cassel, 28, editor of the Wall City News, the convicts' newspaper, and John Lawlor, 31, seriously ill, was a collector of first editions.

The men, all, with the exception of Lawlor who was sentenced to life for murder, were convicted on charges of robbery.

Warden James B. Halahan today conducted a strict investigation into the party that followed a baseball game during the annual field exercises.

It was known that Brown had received a bottle of wood alcohol from the prison pharmacy to use on his printing machine.

Miss Wetzel, who was half asleep, thought it was her mother who was away at a lake.

GRIM "HANGOVER"

"CONVICT INTELLECTUALS" ATTEMPTED TO DISPEL THE GLOOM OF PRISON LIFE

San Quentin State Prison, Calif., Aug. 19.—(UP)—A grim "hangover" today followed the liquor party yesterday in which a group of "convict intellectuals" attempted to chase away the gloom from prison life.

One man was dead, two others believed dying and a fourth in a serious condition from wood alcohol poisoning.

The four represented the best element in the institution, according to officials. Charles J. Brown, 30, the dead man, was associate editor of the Bulletin, prison magazine; Joe Mackin, 29, blind, was foreman of the printshop; George Cassel, 28, editor of the Wall City News, the convicts' newspaper, and John Lawlor, 31, seriously ill, was a collector of first editions.

The men, all, with the exception of Lawlor who was sentenced to life for murder, were convicted on charges of robbery.

Warden James B. Halohan today conducted a strict investigation into the party that followed a baseball game during the annual field exercises.

It was known that Brown had received a bottle of wood alcohol from the prison pharmacy to use on his printing machine.

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Aug. 19.—Struck over the head with a gas pipe, Miss Freda Degen, 15, St. Paul, was robbed of $41.29 and a pair of ear rings last night in a dark alley near her home. The girl was returning from a berry picking excursion and had her entire earnings in her pocketbook.

Fort Snelling, Minn., Aug. 19.—Col. Frederick H. Payne, assistant secretary of war, made a successful flight from here to Sheboygan, Wis., according to a telegram received here. Col. Payne left here at 8:30 and arrived at the Wisconsin city at 10:45 A. M.

Savage, Minn., Aug. 19.—Sheriff Joseph Weckman of Scott county today had warrants prepared for service if the promoters of dog racing here persisted in their activities.

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 19.—A professional jewel thief was sought today as the man who took $1,000 in rings and jewels from the home of M. V. Wetzel. Miss Genevieve Wetzel was sleeping late in the morning while the rest of the family was away and when the man accidentally opened the door into her room he passed it off with "Time to get up now," Miss Wetzel, who was half asleep, thought it was her mother who was away at a lake.

Saxophone Inventor

There was a famous family of Belgian musical instrument makers named Sax. The inventor of the saxophone belonged to this family, and his name was Antoine Joseph Sax, known as Adolphe Sax. He was born at Dinant, Belgium, November 6, 1814, and died in Paris February 4, 1894. In 1845 he took out a patent for the saxhorn. On June 22, 1846, he registered the saxophone.

The straight cardigan jacket matches the skirt and has clever little inverted cuffs. A yellow linen bag, closed zipper-fashion is embroidered with the same monogram and has a leather slipper strap. The shoes are from Pictorial Review. Sizes 6 to 6 1/2. Price, $12.50. 60 cents.

"WHERE'S EMILY?"
by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XLVII.

AND so, when Fleming Stone came into the room, he saw a pretty girl with a sweet but troubled face sitting up against the pillows waiting for him.

"Let me do the talking," he suggested. "We want to cover all the ground we can with the least possible exertion on your part. I'll tell you what I know and what I think, and you can set me right if I go astray."

And so expeditious was the detective's procedure, and so true his deductions and conclusions, that Emily had little to do but acquiesce and tell him a few points that he had no other way of learning.

"Now," he said, as they finished their confab, "I wonder if you would be willing to put this all out of your mind for twenty-four hours. Forget it utterly and leave it all to me. In the meantime, you get thoroughly rested, give poor Mr. Sayre a sight of you, and your aunt, too, if you feel equal to it, and then, tomorrow, if you're up to it, tell the whole story to us all."

"That would just suit me," Emily smiled at him. "This talk with you is about all I can stand for one day, but tomorrow I'll be ready to face the whole world."

"I believe you will be," and Stone realized that, severe though the shock had been this young, healthy constitution was going to throw off the effects with astonishing rapidity.

At the nurse's orders, Emily had a long rest, and after luncheon Rodney was allowed to visit her.

Warned not to be too emotional, he just took her into a strong, silent embrace, and then, laying her back on the pillows, he said:

"Not much talky-talky, my lady. You're just to be still and look at me and let me look at you for the space of twenty minutes, and then it's good-by until tomorrow."

"We'll have our twenty minutes," Emily assured him, "and something tells me we won't wait till tomorrow for another twenty. If I wheedle the nurse, I'm sure she'll let you come in and say good night to me, and oh, Rodney, darling, in a day or two, I'll be absolutely all right again. Won't that be fine?"

Sayre fully agreed with this, and then the twenty minutes flew by as if on wings.
